Trump waives key Russia-related sanctions, tariffs before they take effect under new law

WASHINGTON: President Donald Trump waived key Russia-related US sanctions and tariffs days before they were to take effect under a law he signed last month, including duties on the country's goods and penalties for buying its oil and gas. In an executive order released by the White House on Friday, Trump said the waiver was in the national interests of the United States. The law is meant to increase pressure on Russia for its invasion of Ukraine that began in 2022. Trump, however, has been warming toward Moscow while publicly criticizing Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskiy, including suggesting Kyiv needs a new leader.

NCCIA arrests two call center scammers in Lahore targeting Americans

"International scams targeting vulnerable citizens undermine financial security and damage cross-border trust, making cybercrime enforcement crucial."

The National Cyber Crime Investigation Agency arrested two men, identified as call center owner Irshad Ahmed Butt and employee Aurangzeb, in Lahore. Operating from Gulberg, the suspects allegedly posed as insurance company representatives to obtain credit and debit card details from US citizens for unauthorized financial transactions.
